the gallery

Dunedin Public Art Gallery

Dunedin's public art gallery was established in 1884. From the outset it established ambitious targets for its collection, acquiring the best European and New Zealand art it could afford. Today it has one of the best collections of any art gallery in New Zealand, with particular strengths in European old master paintings and New Zealand art. A lively and stimulating exhibition programme ensures that both classical and contemporary works from the gallery's collections are always on show, alongside works from collections elsewhere in New Zealand and overseas.

For information about exhibitions and events, check the gallery website: www.dunedin.art.museum
